Dear Mr Holmes,

I have received a letter regarding the CIL with the charging attachments. I cannot find any reference to determine whether this will apply to extensions of existing residential dwellings. The CIL rates refer to "Residential Developments". Paragraph 11 of the draft charging schedule defines "New build" to include enlargements to existing buildings.

I think it should be stated clearly whether the CIL applies to extensions to existing dwellings or not.

It would be good to see documents set out clearly and in plain English for those of us not involved in the planning process.

Yours sincerely

John Beyer
